

Yum China and Chipotle lead, Bloomin' and Papa John's trail, whichever pillar is left out

Ten restaurant companies ranked on four pillars from what they reported to the SEC. TTM is the twelve months to 2025-09-30; 9M is the first nine months of 2025 against the same months of 2024.

Four pillars, each ranked 1 to 10 and summed with equal weight

Company	Position	Rank sum	Operating margin, TTM %	Margin rank	Margin change, 9M pts	Change rank	Revenue growth, 9M %	Growth rank	Liabilities / assets %	Leverage rank
Yum China	1	15	10.8	6	+0.7	2	3.1	6	42.1	1
Chipotle	2	17	16.4	5	-0.8	5	5.6	4	65.3	3
McDonald's	2	17	46.1	1	+1.2	1	1.8	7	103.6	8
Texas Roadhouse	2	17	8.9	7	-1.0	6	11.7	2	54.8	2
Restaurant Brands International	5	18	23.9	3	-6.5	10	14.0	1	79.9	4
Cheesecake Factory	6	21	5.4	8	+0.6	3	4.9	5	86.9	5
Yum Brands	7	22	30.9	2	-1.4	7	9.9	3	204.3	10
Wendy's	8	24	17.0	4	+0.6	3	-2.3	10	97.8	7
Bloomin' Brands	9	33	1.7	10	-2.5	8	0.1	9	89.4	6
Papa John's	10	34	4.5	9	-4.2	9	1.8	7	147.9	9

Cash ahead of profit, trailing twelve months

10 of 10

Each figure is ranked at the one decimal it is printed at, and ties are shared. Ranks rather than scores, because one extreme would set the scale of a score. Earnings quality sits beside the ranking and does not order it: cash running ahead of profit is universal in this sector, so it separates no one. Reported figures, not adjusted for one-off items. Not investment advice.

Position with one pillar left out: the ends hold, the middle moves

Operating margin against leverage: the trade-off behind the middle six

